Thousands of Happy Children Spend a Day on the Grounds in Seeing Sights.

The Annual Exhibit Is Fairly Begun-The Judges Commence Their Work of Awarding Premiums-First Day of the Races.

Those who attended the fair yesterday did not need to be told that it was children's day. It was estimated that fully 10,-000 boys and girls, of ages ranging from six to fourteen years, were admitted through the gates, a calculation based upon the school enumeration of the city. There are, on record, 13,000 school children in Indianapolis, of which number 8,000 attended the fair yesterday, and, it was thought by the management, fully 2,000 boys and girls belonging to no schools were on the grounds. Never before in the history of Indiana fairs have the gratuities of the board, which are annually extended to the young folks, been so universally accepted. Early in the morning the street cars to the grounds were crowded to their utmost capacity, the numbers increasing until the earlier part of the afternoon, when they came almost in a constant stream. It was a day that will be long remembered by the

By this morning everything will be complete. There seems, this year, to have been extra pains taken in building up the special departments. The poultry exhibition is larger and more complete than it has been in former years, owing, doubtless, to the fact that its management has been intrusted to the Indiana State Poultry Association. From 1,500 to 2,000 entries have been made, and the premium lists increased. "We have made a great many changes this year," said Mr. Tobin, president of the State Poultry Association, "and they are changes that will tend to build up the department. Heretofore the great trouble has been that the chickens couldn't be cared for, and men wouldn't bring their stock for that reason. But we have made more complete arrangements this year, and all of the chickens are being cared for in the best manner possible. This shuts out what we call 'huckster exhibitors,' and they have been plentiful in past years. This year there are none." The department this year also boasts of a new feature—an incubator that hatches out chickens while you wait. By way of a curiosity there is a four-legged chicken, with double organs, hatched on the farm of S. C. Rinker, Daleville, Ind., on May 10. It is a plain barn-yardfowl, and apparently is as active as if it had been administered a dose of the elixir.

The horticultural exhibit is said to far dose of the elixir.

The horticultural exhibit is said to far exceed any that has ever been shown, and by many of the visitors it was declared to be alone well worth the price of admission. The arrangement of fruit has been made with an aim to please the eye, for 12,500 apples, as an instance, are arranged in long rows, occupying 2,500 plates. Other fruits are as tastefully arranged. Among the pears are specimens ranging from three to eleven inches in circumference, while

An exhibit that is attracting much attention is the Indiana tobacco. For the most part it is what is commonly known as the "White Burley" variety, and is used exclusively for chewing purposes. It the entire Fourth congressional district. Kentucky and Ohio also grow the same kind, but it is claimed that the soil of Indiana in this belt is far superior to that found elsewhere. It has only been an industry in this State for six years, but, it is claimed, Indiana will soon rank first in the Burley

The floral display at the State fair is on the ground floor of the Exposition Build-ing, near the west end. It is not large, but attracts attention by reason of the excel-lence of the specimens of flowers and plants that are shown. There is but one foreign exhibitor, James Vick, of Rochester, N. Y... who sends a display of cut flowers. The best part of this exhibit consists of dahlias, of which there are 250 varieties, all double. The collection comprises the choicest and rarest kinds of these charming Mexican flowers, the latest being several beautiful specimens of the cactus variety. Accompanying these is a good collection of gladioles and some other cut flowers. There are several specimens of the molucea balm, or shell plant, that and the amateurs by Mrs. E. A. Parker, Mrs. M. B. Danley and E. M. Bronson. Mrs. Parker shows a fine collection of begonias, Mrs. Danley of hanging baskets and E. M. Bronson of begonias and asters. Mrs. Danley also shows a magnificent specimen of fuchsia. Bertermann Bros. have a fine display of variegated plants, ferns, palms and coleus. Mr. Rieman, also, exhibits variegated plants, and a good lot of geraniums; Mrs. Hilker, palms, begonias, asters, geraniums and variegated plants, and Mr. Larsen asters and a beautiful collection of hanging baskets.

Musical Instruments. In the northeast corner of the upper floor of the main building is the display of pianos and organs of D. H. Baldwin & Co., which forms the center of attraction of the upber floor. No pains have been spared to make a beautiful and striking effect in the space allotted to this exhibit, and it is the finest display of pianos ever shown in this city. They are taken from the stock of D. H. Baldwin & Co., Nos. 95, 97 and 99 North Pennsylvania street. Each instrument is of exquisite finish, strength and durability of tone—the best of its grade—and the display includes all the styles of pianos made. Decker Bros., Haines Bros., J. & C. Fischer and D. H. Baldwin & Co.'s pianos (in mahogany, Circassian walnut, ebonized and rosewood) are the different makers of these pianos. The organs exhibited are the Estey, Shoninger and Hamilton, of different patterns. This house has an enviable reputation for fair dealing, and a business that is triple that of any other house in the cities where it has branches. Its superior facilities enable it to offer instruments at prices that are very favorable to customers. Visitors are always welcome to their piano-rooms, down town, in the New Denison Hotel Block.

a day that will be long remembered by the children. Set apart, as it was, for their unrestrained enjoyment, this laudable end was certainly accomplished. In pairs, quartets, and, more often, in bands of ten and a dozen, they wandered over the grounds and through the main and adjoining buildings, seeing everything that came along, and gathering, betimes, cards, books and fancy advertisements of every description. Comparatively few were accompanied by their parents, but, in general, the order was good. The day was a pleasure to the older folks, too, at least for such as find enjoyment in witnessing the happiness of the children.

The work proper of opening up displays in reality began yesterday, although some exhibits were not finally arranged until after the crowds had, dispersed last night. By this morning everything will be complete. There seems, this year, to have been agreed to the children are the property of the complete. There seems, this year, to have been agreed to the down, in the New Dentson Hotel Block.

The McCormicks' Machinery.

J. B. Heywood, who has charge of the McCormick harvester in this department, has a characteristic display of these celebrated machines. This is one of those perfected contrivances that, by universal acclaim and acknowledgment, is one of the principal attractions to the farming element, and consequently its exhibition is a necessity and this popularity is evidence that it possesses peculiar and general features of merit. A full line of harvesters, binders and mowers are exhibited, improved and made more beautiful than in former years. The exhibit is in the fifth building east from the main hall. The business of the McCormicks has increased to such an extent in this section that they are compelled to have larger facilities, sales and storage capacity at this point, and they are now building the largest and finest block of its capacity at this point, and they are now building the largest and finest block of its kind in the country for their special business, which will be completed early in the coming year.

An Attraction. The exhibit of Charles Mayer & Co., the great Washington-street importer of and dealer in toys, notions, fancy goods, children's carriages, and out and in-door amusements, is worthy the great establishment it is. All day yesterday the visitors and school children lingered admiringly around these charming quarters. Their space is beautifully arranged and covered with an array of goods peculiar to their line which at once received the heartiest praise. What is here shown is but a small fraction and indicator of that contained in the five mammoth floors of the down-town house, at 29 and 31 West Washington street.

The Wells Manufacturing Company. This firm have their display of stoves situated on the north side of the main building. A collection of stoves, as made nowadays, is as much an exhibition of art as of utility. This collection presents novelties in both heating and cooking-stoves ahead of any other exhibit. The "Red Cross" heating-stove for coal and wood; the "Penn Franklin" for natural gas. a closed or open heater; also the "Best Friend" coal cook-stove, largely in use in this city, cammanded much attention from visitors. These stoves are just as they sell every day and not specially fixed up for exhibition purposes.

New York Steam Dental Company. Dr. A. P. Herron, the popular and aggressive manager of this concern, was on hand yesterday, answering questions and imparting information to many visitors used exclusively for chewing purposes. It imparting information to many visitors is grown in Ohio county and throughout who viewed the large display of dental appliances and all kinds of dental work exhibited on the south side of the second floor to the main building. It is the largest and best display ever made at any State fair. The success of the New York Steam Dental Company during its six years of existence is wholly due to merit and the wide-awake management of Dr. Herron.

Stoves and House Furnishings. Mr. George E. Feeney, of 84 West Washington street, displayed unusual enterprise by an attractive display of stoves, among them the celebrated Garland base-burners, cook-stoves and ranges; also, the Garland natural-gas stove. The "Orient" gas-stove heater, that can be changed from gas to coal in a few minutes, was much admired.

Special Exhibits. In the glove line H. S. Tucker is the prominent exhibiter. This season he has made a decided departure from previous years, making an interesting display of the nat. ural skins from which different kinds of gloves are manufactured. The stock exhibited displays the unlimited resources of the glover, from the dressed to undressed varieties in every known mode set by modern fashion. The display is a creditable one, and is of decided interest to the visitors, especially the ladies. Mr. Tucker is one of the merchants of Indianapolis who endeavors earnestly to make the State fair a creditable exposi tion of local mercantile interests.

Among the implement displays that of the Avery Planter Company, of Peoria, is deserving of particular mention. The practical farmer is at once attracted by their fine exhibit of corn-planters, check-rowers, cultivators, stalk-cutters, and other modern farm implements, the general excellence of which deserves the highest encomiums.

Mr. J. N. Butler, who is in charge of the display, called the attention of the reporter to a new tank heater, which has many features to recommend it. Visitors at the fair interested in improved farm implements should give the Avery Planter Company's exhibit a careful in-

Almost the first display which engages the attention of visitors to the second floor of the exposition building, is the cloak exhibit of Jos. Rink, whose establishment is located at 30 and 32 North Illinois ment is located at 30 and 32 North Illinois street. The seal-skin and plush sacques and cloaks in this exhibit are a revelation of luxury and beauty. All styles and kinds are exhibited, it being evident that there is nothing in the cloak line which Mr. Rink does not carry. The fine effect in this exhibit is obtained by displaying these elegant garments on life-like wax figures. Ladies desiring to purchase from paterns inspected at the fair are invited to give Mr. Rink a personal call, at 30 and 32 North Illinois street.

Visitors to the State fair to-day, and during the week, will do well to read the appended list of some of the most noteworthy exhibits to be seen in the various departments, both in the main hall and on the grounds. For Selling Cigarettes to Minors.

For some time past complaint has been made at police headquarters concerning the manner in which William Gachman, of East Washington street, had been carrying on his business-that of selling cigarettes, candy, etc., and police officers have been detailed to watch the premises. The complaints have been to the effect that Gachman has been in the habit of catteing children into a rear room of the house, and teaching them to play cards, gambling, and other disreputable games. The children were all of tender age, ranging from seven to fifteen. Last night Gachman was ar-rested and lodged in the cell on a charge of selling eigarettes to minors.

Cashier Selected for the New Bank, Maj. W. D. Ewing yesterday tendered his of the molucea balm, or shell plant, that attract much attention. This is by no means pew. but it is a strange plant, the flower being in the center of a green calyx. This exhibit is in charge of H. H. Vick.

The professional florists of this city are represented in displays by Bertermann Bros., Maj. W. D. Ewing yesterday tendered his resignation as general manager of the Mackey lines, at Evansville, to take effect on the 30th of this month. His action was brought about by his selection as cashier of the new bank to be located in this city, of which Josephus Collett is to be president.

THE CAMPAIGN IN THE CITY

Democratic Organs Find Little to Comfort Them in a Comparison of Records.

Complete Refutation of the Charge that Chief Daugherty Has Made a Political Refuge of the Fire Department.

The closing days of the municipal canvass, while not ornamented with any of the public demonstrations which have rendered other recent political contests picturesque and spectacular, are, nevertheless, marked by a good deal of quiet earnestness and energy among people interested in the outcome of the campaign. There are no drums beaten, but the bushes are being pounded vigorously for concealed voters, and the wards have been polled by parties with as much as was shown when the dential succession hung in the balance. The Democratic managers have apparently abandoned the comparison of records so strenuously advocated by the drators at their city convention. The figures from the official records, showing that with an income of about $900,000 they had piled up a dept of half a million in their two years' administration, while the Republicans had subsequently kept up every department of the city government, added largely to its permanent improvements, and restored the municipal credit with less than two-thirds of the revenue handled by their predecessors, caused a rapid abandonment of the comparison of records plan, and the number of Democratic counselors who proposed that programme has liberally as it was expected they would, and some of them are declining to make, provement of the streets and the building of the Virginia-avenue viaduct, than to have licenses reduced or removed to the extent that the business shall fall into the hands of irresponsible parties who want to run doggeries, and pay no attention to either city ordinances or the State regula-

Deprived of any comfort in these direc-tions, the Democracy has turned its attention to the conduct of particular departments of the city government under Republican administration. Its latest effort in that direction can hardly be termed a conspicuous success. The fire department was selected as the point of attack, and the pay-rolls and accounts of the department under Chief Daugherty's administration, were tabulated and compared with the figures of a corresponding period under ex-Chief Webster's control, with a view of showing Daugherty's alleged incompetency and wastefulness. When the two columns were added up, it was found that Webster's "dempition total" was larger than Daugherty's, and that branch of the investigation was summarily abandoned, the News even declining to print the figures after it had them in its possession. The tion to the conduct of particular departthe News even declining to print the figures after it had them in its possession. The Democratic platform alleged that the fire department was a partisan machine, and the Democratic organs have daily asserted that tried and faithful members of the service had been turned out of it to make places for political heelers. The records of the department show that but two removals have been made under Chief Daugherty's administration. One of these was made for insubordination persisted in after repeated subordination, persisted in after repeated warnings, and the other was for open defiance of the authority of the present dedepartment, and a public declaration of an intention to disobey its orders. "It is not to be presumed," said a former member of the department under ex-Chief Webster's management, a few days since, "that any of the Democratic organs will ever print these facts, anymore than they will print the figures showing the comparative expense of the two administrations, but they are facts nevertheless, and the record shows them. When Chief Daugherty was shows them. When Chief Daugherty was appointed he gave the men to understand that he had nothing to do with their political opinions, and that all he required of them was that they should do their duty as firemen, and there have been but two removals since that time, and both of them for causes which rendered the retention of the men discharged impossible without ruining the discipline of the service. The Democratic members of the force who have attended to their duties have neither been Democratic members of the force who have attended to their duties have neither been annoyed nor disturbed, as some thirty of them who remain in the service will testify, and there has been no talk of their discharge in the department or out of it, except that started for political effect by people disconnected with its management. The talk of inefficiency in the management of the department is of like ment of the department is of like character, and for the same purpose. It was never in better condition or more efficiently managed than it is at present. The present chief entered its service twenty years ago, and worked his way to the top of the ladder by faithful service, close attention to his duty, and his own conceded ability. The men whom he directs know him thoroughly, and he has their full confidence. There is no more efficient department of its size in the country than the one he directs. It has been largely bettered since he was given its control. and nobody knows this better than some of the people who are attacking him for the sake of trying to make a political

Various Ward Meetings. The meeting of Eleventh-ward Republicans, called by order of the Republican city executive committee, to consider and take such action as is deemed proper in the matter of the representation of the ward in Council, will be called to order at Plafflin's Hall at 8 o'clock this evening, and all Republican voters of the ward are invited to be present.

The Prohibitionists will hold a public meeting to-night at the corner of South and East streets. Rev. J. A. Pollock and others will speak. S. J. Parish has been nominated for councilman by the Prohibitionists of the Eighteenth ward, and S. P. Carll has been nominated for councilman by the Prohibitionists of the Twenty-second ward.

The Auti-Murphy Movement. The friends of Councilman Kelley and those of Michael Murphy, who laid Kelley out in the race for the Democratic nomination as councilman in the Twenty-second ward, are still having a monkey and parrot time of it, and Tom Taggart is losing a good deal of sleep in his efforts to stop the destruction of hair and feathers. Murphy's gang beat Kelley by stating that Kelley was bribed by the gas company to vote against any reduction in the price of gas, through having a free gas engine furnished him by the company, a charge for which there is no foundation, and Koss, one of the German Democratic candidates at the primary, has similar grievances to complain of. Between the friends of Kelley and Koss, Murphy's canvass is relieved of any monotonous tendencies.

The New Election Law. Committees representing both political organizations waited upon Judge Irvin, yesterday, to get from him an opinion upon the election law passed last winter, which provides penalties for the improper use of money or other considerations in elections, Accidents of a Day. While decorating the outside of a building yesterday afternoon, at the fair grounds, M. J. Moore fell from a ladder, breaking his right leg. He was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital by Flanner & Buchanan. George Wells, a painter, fell from a scaffolding, on Summit street, at noon yesterday, and sprained his right ankle, receiving, also, internal injuries. He was taken to the City Hospital in Kregelo's ambulance. He is a single man and resides at No. 37 Kentucky avenue.

Mrs. R. A. Clark, wife of Timothy Clark, of police headquarters, met with a strange and dangerous accident yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds. She had stepped up to a stand for the purpose of purchasing some ginger-ale for her children, when a soda bottle exploded, a piece of the glass entering her neck below the ear, inflicting a deep cut and severing an artery. Dr. McDonald, who was on the grounds, with some difficulty managed to stop the flow of blood, but not before the woman was in an exhausted condition. Mrs. Clark was afterwards conveyed to her home, at 110 Arch street.

Haess resides at 81 Columbia arenna.

Given to the Illinois Authorities. Requisition papers were issued yesterday by Governor Hovey for the conveyance to Illinois of B. F. Chase and F. Cook, alias Campbell, who are wanted at Streator on charges of swindling by cards, conspiring to obtain money and other property by false pretenses. The prisoners, who are detained at LaPorte, are also charged with having victimized one Frederick Grain, a farmer, out of $5,000 by a confidence game. Complaints have been received in various parts of the State from people who have been swindled out of large sums of money, and Captain Nelson estimates the total sum which this pair of rogues have gleaned from their rascally but apparently profitable pursuit at $30,000. Chase and Cook were apprehended just as they had persuaded an old farmer at La-Porte to draw from a local bank $6,000.

Amusement Matters. "The Burglar" had a fine audience at English's, last night, and the performance was received with many evidences of favor. The play is one of the strongest that has been seen in this city for a long time and merits a liberal patronage. There will be a matinee to-morrow.

Hanlon's "New Fantasma" is drawing large audiences to the Grand. It is one of the most elaborate spectacular productions of its character that has ever been presented to the public. A matinee is an-nounced for this afternoon, to which twen-ty-five and fifty cents will be the prices of Receiver Rand's Report. Frederick Rand, receiver of the Indiana Banking Company, filed, yesterday, with the county clerk his fifth annual report concerning that trust. The report shows the cash on hand as per fourth annual report to have been $36,200.10; total of sums received since Oct. 1, 1888, and of the amount on hand at that time, $56,633.78, less credits amounting to $40,698, leaving a balance in the hands of the receiver of $15,-935.43. Of this last-named amount there are dividends unpaid because uncalled for an ounting to $2.048.68, which, deducted from the cash on hand, leaves in the hands of the receiver and subject to the order of the court the sum of $13,891.75.

Engle, of this city, secretary, has opened headquarters in Parlor 15. Denison House. The sessions of the order will be held at Masonic Temple. Among the noted ladies who have already arrived are Mrs. B. F. Helfer, Fort Scott, Ark.; Mrs. L. J. Pitman, Chicago; Mrs. Geo. F. Marsh, Mrs. J. R. Bordeaux, Butte City, M. T.; Mrs. Sallie C.
